Vitamins to VEGA!

29th. Jan. 2024

VITAMIN

01

The vitamin market fluctuated upwards, BASF significantly increases the price of VE, the market price also increased, and some areas were out of stock; VK3 delivery continued to be tight, and some manufacturers stopped reporting: VA manufacturers stopped reporting, market transactions strengthened, and as market inventory was consumed, VB1, VC low-price inventory decreased, the supply will be tight.

AMINO ACID

02

The amino acid market is stable, with individual varieties on a downward trend, and the market prices of most varieties tend to bottom; the market of arginine and isoleucine is relatively stable; the price of valine is weak, with the market price USD2.02-2.1/KG.

API

03

The API's market remains weak and stable, with sufficient supply and mainly back-to-back orders; the market price of amoxicillin has loosened and declined recently; the market supply of doxycycline is sufficient, and the price is negotiable one by one; Florfenicol & Tylosin keep running on the weak side. At present, the price of lincomycin Hcl is relatively strong, while that of oxytetracycline and neomycin is mainly stable.

FOOD ADDITIVE

04

The overall trend is stable. The prices of the sweetener series products sucralose/aspartame/acesulfame potassium remain stable, and shipments are stable and normal: the price of creatine monohydrate remains stable and will show a price reduction trend in the next two months. The current market transaction price is at USD7-7.7/KG: Mainstream manufacturers of L-carnitine series products have stopped reporting: prices of preservative products sodium benzoate/potassium sorbate series products have remained stable due to market demand, and the long-term outlook is bullish.
