VITAMIN

01

Starting this week, the market of vitamin D3 500 feed grade has become noticeably active. Before the May Day holiday, major brands stopped accepting orders due to maintenance, out of stock, suspension of production, and other reasons. Some rumors continued to ferment in the market, and this week, there was some panic restocking in the market. Up to now, for D3 500 feed grade, major brands have basically stopped reporting, the market is relatively stable, and the transaction situation has improved. The market price is around USD7.2-8/kg.

AMINO ACID

02

On May 29, 2024, Huaheng Bio and BASF's Agricultural Solutions business unit signed a strategic cooperation agreement. The two parties will combine BASF's innovative genes in agricultural solutions with Huaheng Bio's technological innovation capabilities in the field of synthetic biology, and jointly deepen cooperation in the important market of plant nutrition to further promote the sustainable development of China's agriculture.

API

03

East Asia Pharmaceutical announced on the evening of May 28 that the company recently received the CPQ certificate (i.e. pre-certification confirmation letter) for levofloxacin API issued by the World Health Organization. The CPQ certificate for levofloxacin API indicates that the product meets the WHO's quality requirements for this variety and has become the WHO recommended procurement supplier for manufacturers of related preparations of the product, which has a positive impact on the global market expansion of the product.
